These are the recreation of the world framework, and a new consensus may possibly give us the future itself.

The world may ask for his decision. And it may be the future itself under any consensus of the international society.

We are required to know all the new possibilities that the world holds. It is the future itself, and these are only possible under the decision.

How does humanity continuously carry the world from the past to today? This has a reason called a hope.

Today we have all the celebrations of all reality under the progress itself in any field of the world. These are the why we have all the new progress.

Politics may take all responsibility for the world to create its future. And their decision is itself.

As we can see, all new births from any academics have all the new potential to recreate the world itself.

These are how we can find the future, and politics must force its decision at the final moment of history.

If no one makes decisions, the world may not be changed.

We all have our choices, and these are only accepted under the freedom.

Disappointment may not be the future, but hope itself.
