

The next society

March 27th, 2025

KURODA International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

New technology allows us to create the future. This is the reality we have in the world today. We have taken new steps into the universe.

These are the eras we have with the world. To seek a new reality, we have new possibilities to make our reality the whole universe.

We can redesign the world. New infrastructure may be underdeveloped by new standards and technologies with detailed plans of all politics.

Any talent may dream of a future that shares the same vision and future itself.

We must know that any creation comes from any industry, so we need plans to rebuild it with the next generation of technologies.

We have a reconstruction of society with new life. These are the gifts and any basis for a new future.

All these are the total shift to the next society under any determines of all politics. We are away from any habit of ancient but all new futures.

We now have a challenge to create a new world and a future based on all new technologies.

We cannot deny all the past but recreate all new futures.

Under all these points of view, any progress of all academics is the basis on which we are trying to build new realities.

A n

d

KURODA International

p

o