The Western camp, with its unparalleled social progress and profound philosophical considerations, holds sway over the world. Who can rival their might? Their wealth is a beacon that guides the rest of the world, compelling others to adapt to survive.

All trends originate in the West, but today, modernization can be seen in any region of the world.

We must know they made social and philosophical considerations in their middle age by creating modern academics.

To reach equal conditions, we need our bases from all academics and consideration from those.

All these realities are found in Japan when they make wars in their era of wars.

Then, we can find that all intelligence is the only basis on which we can converse equally with the world.

I can define equality as only a possibility of finding a way to the future.

Equality is only permitted under the same conditions and to possess the same reality. These are the laws of power politics.

Based on our background and identity, we can make all our world, which must be the origin of the East.

We have to deny being yellow cabs but last samurai.

We may not need to be an enemy but friends, but friendship may not belong but its independence.
