

The reality of America and the challenge of possibility

December 24th, 2024

KURODA International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

This is creativity, which makes the future of the world.

And any fundamentals of society cover all these realities and make it possible with all new futures.

Backing to the future, who may be permitted? That is who makes all the challenges for the future.

Anything must contain all its truth on the tails of any realities. As we insisted, academics makes all things possible.

We finally know how they hold their academic environment. These are reasons why they are permitted their realities.

They have their dreams, and they are given their king today—the new president of the USA, Mr. Donald Trump.

Their technology, combined with their creativity, makes things new. Their creativity may not be limited to their industry but may also be behind their politics.

We may not find a future if we can be away from existing. These are the changes and shifts called evolution today, with all the progress of any reality.

If we have a proper calculation of any reality based on the progress of all academics, what do we find in the future?

These are the ways how we may realize all our dreams. We have a good teacher called USA.

Politics makes all things possible, which is called choice. Politics always has its decisions for the world.