Within the framework of capitalism, a free economic system driven by the power of money, we witness the potential for everything to become possible.

It is a complete irony that we confront a world where justice and conscience often seem to pale in comparison to the might of money.

We all know that international finance capital exists. If the above is true, they have everything possible.

The mass seeks wealth, and it gives a world to it. A career is a means to obtain it.

And we have found all the new business trends. Wealth is a law that makes things possible under capitalism and the free economic system.

Adhering to these realities is the path children will take in the future.

If you have a huge capital, it is possible to create the same infrastructure and military with your own nation as the USA.

On the other hand, there are world demands for ethical judgment. These two are different and only have a reality in choice.

And then what should be the decision of all masses? We have an age of democracy.

Then we can ask what the means of economy.

And all the above politics decide the world and the future.

We need to be wise to recreate the world. That means we may not be trooped in.
