

The world's new consensus

October 8th, 2023

KURODA International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

We could propose a new world consensus. Any agreement comes with a reality we could share in the future.

Peace and a sufferless world is an ideal we could find from the past to the future. We need a future as we stand with any world reality.

There are new possibilities we have today for the future. That is a new era in which we put ourselves into the universe.

World consensus could be the new future that we could argue and discuss. We have a new world order starting today in the Middle East. There are plans in the future.

Any effort we try to make is the creation of our world and our future.

If we find cooperation with the universe, we could share any cooperation with all world creations in the future.

All these contacts may give us all new realities, stand against the world, and step into the universe.

War could be any decision we may find any realities with the world. Under all these circumstances, what could we find a difference?

Unification of Asia could be any basis to stand any realities in the future of the change.

All these are related to any contact with the universe on this planet from any age of history. New world order is a decision from the universe that we must know.

We may find a light in the future, not a dark night.