

The world's choice of consensus

March 31st, 2024

Kuroda International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

The future may not be determined, so we have a choice of them.

We have a dream about our world; these are recreations of reality and attempts to build a new civilization.

We set up all these bases as we design a new society and livelihood.

We are facing new technology with new possibilities to recreate the world. All these are based on any industry and academic progress. We need to prepare new conditions with them to base the future.

And if the world has an agreement on the future. We could seek a new world.

We are trying to make all our choices to redesign the world and create a new future. To change the world, we have a new future.

And we see agreement could be all based on any future. As I insist we need to make 3rd group in the world.

How could we find the future under any circumstances we have with the world? We need to make our group. That is any basis on which we can work for the world.

Unless we have to follow with a reality in the future.

These are the only choices we have to seek for the future. On the other hand, we only have to follow the world according to any plans we have here in the world.

We may have a choice: we make our world or follow theirs.

