The modern giant is Henry Kissenger. The world must change after his era. All politics learn from him with its govern.

To his erudition and humility, the world gave him itself.

But with age that we find there is an era after him. We may consider how the world is changed.

There are new elites. They have all educated and have careers. We now see a new world under all new technologies.

We now find the growth of the new world, especially in the business field. But all control by politics is less than all common sense.

Henry Kissinger's brilliance is his intelligence, which politicians should understand. His intellect ruled the world.

That gives us the idea that politicians must be required skill and ability to handle the world. These are from all intelligence.

Fundamental of politics is also needed by their personality. If reconstruction of the world is a truth, we need to know all its fundamentals only permit any realities.

This is a law of politics. If we are trying to consider it, we need to find an answer.

What the world gave him in his personality was that he was charming.
