

The world plan

KURODA International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

From our office, we are trying to make the world design. There is a new world we can dream of.

New technology may allow us to redesign society and build a contemporary community under all new technology and systems.

New lives are given under a new system of society and the use of all new technologies. Social construction must be required for any academic consideration, and education is the always tails of anything, so the righteous structure of beings is equally provided to all peoples and equal opportunity.

We are trying to make a new relationship with all universe beings. This is an all-declaration to step into the new space age.

And we are trying to gather the participation of all nations and expand all realities into the future.

Industry could create the future as we have a free economic system in the world. We need the right political strategies and plans.

We need the right vision to create a new world. You may have all your decisions as I present my idea to the world.

These are the reconstruction of all realities of the future. We need the right political actions.

Politics make a design. And all people may realize them. That is a possibility we have to create a new world.

A new social system may ask for all growth of all realities to ask for any steps into the future.

Decisions make them all possible. Any vision may not be all illusion but reality itself.