

The world under the new consensus

April 30th, 2024

Kuroda International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

International society shares humanism to seek and ask for any solution to the world. But we all know that we have all the world's truth, and they are trying to pursue their purpose.

We could consider any world plan based on all our considerations. That is a way we can face all the reality of the world.

We see that we have a new relationship with the universe. All this cooperation is the shearing and creation of new futures.

We could build a new consensus that should include all new promises of the world. We could make a difference in international society to face the future.

Consensus could be an agreement, giving us a new world. And if the world agrees, we can find a new world then.

All new decisions involve a new way to the future. These are the realities we have to seek in politics.

We may see that all the new decisions cause the change.

We can dream of the future; we have all the new technology and progress today. And who could promise us the future? That is what we have to ask.

Any description we have offered may be any tails of the world consensus. We do not need any tragedy anymore.

To see any eyes of all children in the world, we must find all truth. That should be all we can ask for in the future.

And the steps are only from any politics that we know.