

The world with a new future

December 21st, 2025

KURODA International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

We have a new hope for the future. And it may be caused by all our new decisions. This is all the reason we may propose a new dialogue to the world.

We need the recreation and design of the world to follow societies. So we need to describe new ideas and designs.

These are under the argument of high intelligence, and they can find all new possibilities for the future.

If society is redesigned, we may find a future. That is under all use of our progress. And academics are all based on themselves.

And all these are the potential we have and face today. But not under all realities are these creations by free economic systems.

Technology and systems that are making progress today give us all new possibilities for the future. And new systems as world systems may offer us the new world itself.

These are all the requirements to shift to the next society. And we need its leadership to make all things a reality.

And these are any changes we have today, and it is a shift to a new world itself. So we must gather all reality under an idea and agreement.

And we need to deeply consider designing a new world. And it may be a result of the progress of humanity.

And all its bases may be given any relation with a space being. Their progress may be in touch with all our futures.