New technology offers us a new future. And new productivity may give us new comfort in our livelihood.

These are the vision of the next society, and it may not be an illusion, but may be a reality under any consensus and decisions.

These are the redesigning of all reality to the next generation standard, and we may wonder how we can expect a new society and life.

We may ask all these realities under any leadership of all politics, and domestic industry gives us all the basis for all these progresses.

We have all recalculation of reality under any progress of all academics, and they may give us a new design of the world.

Shift from the past to the future may ask us to conquer all survival principles, but the next society.

We may have a new world consensus and could agree on new ideas to share with the future. And we can see that these are the agreements that we may share in the new world itself.

We need all progressive ideas that contain the future, and we can all agree that we have all new participation in the universe.

These are evolutionary shifts from the past to the future; we finally reach the universe with unlimited possibilities in the future.

So, national politics must agree on a new consensus to make all things new. We have all new designs of the world and all we need is to make a new act/
