

To ask new world principles under all invasion of Ukraine and the crisis of the Middle East

March 3rd, 2025

Kuroda International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

The formation of a global coalition of the willing, with the support of many nations, could bring these peace proposals and actions into reality in Ukraine and the Middle East and propose a new global framework for outlawing war in a new world.

The transition to a new world can be realized through discussion and decision-making at an extraordinary UN General Assembly, and through consensus reached by majority vote.

These are the determination of the world's willing participants to build a new world and the formation of agreements and proposals to all nations that these agreements will make the new world a reality.

All these are based upon any agreement of nations that promises a new future. We can argue any agenda that may solve all the problems of the world.

These are the challenges of a new world, and the Accord can turn them into reality.

With all the above we have a massive possibility to recreate the world under all its cooperation to use all new technologies and make all pour new steps into the universe.

We have all new world principles and frameworks which may tail the coming future.

We may find these are the conversations of conscience, and we are gathered to make new cooperations that may share the same world visions and the future.

These are our most sincere proposals and requests to all our friends around the world.

We have been trying to make all new challenges from our office to the world, which contain new ideas and visions.