

To conquer all survival and recreate the world

June 4th, 2024

Kuroda International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

New civilizations with new technology and systems may be above conquering any survival principle. We may find the world without suffering and pain.

These advancements are not just theoretical, but are in the hands of every academic, every professional, driving progress forward.

As we are trying to reconstruct any reality in the nation. We rebuild them using all academics, even in the political field.

A new social system and any rules and laws must be re-established. We are ready to rebuild society and the nation using the latest technologies and systems.

We may know all these are the past we have under all survival principles, but we must conquer them to recreate any reality in the future.

The new social system of basic income may lead to new realities.

We see we have society 5.0, smart city, zero-emission, and industry 4.0. These are the measures all politicians agree on to rebuild any realities of the nations.

We propose all new systems and rules based on the above-coming future of its realities. Philosophy may base them all.

And any idea we have on the earth may face all new possibilities of participating in space.

New Socialism may be the core of all these realities, and it may be the new responsibility of politics for all people.

Any plans are the promises that create the future. Politics may lead all its evolutionary changes under its intelligence.