

Turning point of all realities

January 21st, 2026

KURODA International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

The new world is all future itself, in which we may find all changes into all realities. We may ask who may survive all changes to a new future.

The world is daring to change itself. There must be something different in its direction itself.

Under all these circumstances, we find different realities with their opposition. History may take different directions in recent changes. These require all shifts of any reality, as we need new world systems.

History from the past to the future may reach a new technological civilization, and it requires new laws and rules.

Capitals, military, politics, and industry may equally find the world covered by any realities.

This is how we are trying to seek any reality in the world. And reality is the only permission we find in reality itself,

To cause against all the realities of the world, we need to stand equally in the world. And expanding to the universe, then we have all new cooperation.

We need a future, and it is our only choice. And we need to determine ourselves for the future.

Politics always has its decisions, and it causes any reality in the future. This is how we are trying to consult,

Turning point forces us to make our decision instead of sending all ideas that we have dreamed of creating a new world.

KURODA International

