

What I thought when I looked into the eyes of a Palestinian child

December 3rd, 2023

Kuroda International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

Their eyes are filled with fear. In the world, all children ask for their Christmas presents to Santa Claus. All these differences must be solved by politicians.

If wars are ended under all world agreements, and its government serves equal educational environments and social realities in any region, all children may ask for their Christmas.

All these are possible within a day if we agree and act today by all politics. Why not? This is all doubt from myself to the world.

We may know that peace only makes it possible with all the dreams of Palestinian children. If any politician must look down on all our proposals, how could we find the future?

All children must be guaranteed their right to possess the dream under any humanitarian commission worldwide.

I give you the truth. The world needs honest politicians who give us a new world and future.

She must talk about her dream to her grandmother, but the wars may kill her. This is a proper idea that we may seek for a new world.

All humanitarian commissions may not be hypocritical. And where could we find justice?

Pain, suffering, and sorrow may not be ignored even in any nationality or race. We have all responsibility for them.

What is a dream of the world? They may not be based on all its tragedies, but all children must have their dreams served equally.

These are the responsibilities of the world that we can share. These are all our proposals to all politicians since you may have all the decisions.