

What is the mission of politics?

KURODA International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

We have all duty for the people and the world. That is all duty of politics.

What is next? We must seek progress in society and life.

Politics have a decision. That means it is the king of all reality. Correct social and self-development is possible only in connection with politics in correct understanding and academics. This must be a reality that must be constructed by educational systems.

These are the suitable bases to step into the future. Since we are trying to make a future.

Any academics have a possibility to expand any possibility in society and life. That gives us full use for the new reality.

Planning for the new society is a vision of the future. Even related to administration, the new system would give us a new possibility.

The new space age is a reality we have today. All progress of technology must be more than existing but the future.

In the west, we have been considering all self and social and academic. All those are from their root. That is all their base, all academics, as they seek their future.

For new diplomacy, what is a philosophy but profit?

If we dream of a world and future, is that a promise of the future? As I said, that determination of self could give us the future.

We have all history, but only an idiot may spend himself within. That means we need a new future.