

When the world collapse

December 6th, 2024

KURODA International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

The meltdown of all economies and seeking a new conflict with a new power balance of reality may be the correct forecast for the future.

But we may cause a new reality under all meltdowns. These are the reconstructions of reality as we try to redesign the world.

All fundamental of the world is finance and its systems. And the economy follows it.

If the world collapses, we can converge on new realities. If the end is a birth, then we can actualize the future.

The transition to a new state of abundance will enable the world to share advances in technology and systems and bring about a shift to a new society and lifestyle.

Building new relationships of trust in the world can abandon all conflict and propose a new world agreement.

It is true that the world is facing and has new possibilities. These are the new participation in the universe and the use of all progress of academics and new technologies.

So, the world may argue and agree on a new future of its potential, but not with any conflict and wars.

These are leaders of all politics who they may seek for a new world.

We had all new world design, but now you have your visions for the world.

The future is only under the creation of all politics, which asks for new ideals and hopes from the world. You can find all new talents in the world who have all the skills and abilities for the world to make all things new.