

With the use of academics to reconstruct any realities

KURODA International Consulting

Takeshi Kuroda

In its self-examination, the West, together with Western academic observations of the colonization of the world, formed modern studies. Japan did this in the process of modernization.

America's leading edge is considered its foundation in constructing politics and society through academics.

These suggest what can be done to enable nation-building in applying for a scholarship in all fields.

All these are the fundamentals of the construction of the future. Since we need a proper society on the base of any realities. Even stepping into society 5.0, all these bases are genuinely required.

Our office only proposes the future. That is what we do want you to know.

Scholarship has an equal reality in its progress. This is America's absolute strength. Their research and teaching environment is the best. Therefore, providing an environment equivalent to theirs is the only option with equal reality.

Also, you should know this. Academics can make everything possible. Therefore, scholarship in politics and society is required in all fields. All developed countries have a nation in their academic progress. This is because the improvement of the educational environment can establish the soundness of the government through the profound cultivation of scholarship and the correct development of the self.

All reality has a reason, and the wise know it and act on it.

Who has the skill and ability for all realities? That is, who knows. Where can we find them? Through all leanings.