

Basic income and financial base

Kuroda International

Takeshi Kuroda

Collecting and distributing 50% of Gross National Product makes the home economy in the monetary economy and currency volatility transform into a new economic and social system, along with the costs in the government. These make a transformation of the world in the free economic system into a new national system.

These tax revenues will provide a living environment for all citizens with cutting edge and cost reduction in mass production.

These tax revenues will be clarified together with the people's right to participate in society, and the conversion to Society 5.0 will be realized domestically.

These new developments will surely be realized in domestic demand, and advanced technology and industry will be fostered in. Increasing tariffs and protecting domestic industries will make new participation in the world's free trade system, raise its industrial standards and achieve domestic demand.

Basic income is government compensation for basic life. These neo-socialisms enable the creation of the Next Society, along with technological and system advances, new industrial and energy revolutions in the present.

These will realize the solution of the poor and the creation of opportunities for social participation, together with the creation of the reality of the future.

They realize a fair distribution of abundance in their productivity contrast in having a dramatic improvement in their efficiency in the advancement of new systems.