

Liberalism and Controlled Society

October 15th, 2024

Kuroda International Consulting LLC

Takeshi Kuroda

Liberalism has a self, along with the reality of ethics and sociality. A controlled society maintains itself through coercion. These are the structures of conflict in the world today.

But we may have doubts about liberalism. That is the irony of their society with double standards.

Any requirement of beings equally asked by any beings may give us an answer.

All these are calculations of humanism. That means we can judge any reality under the equal idea of humanism.

Liberalism is not necessarily perfect, but the world it creates gives it its charm. I have an answer to humanism. That is love itself. And it is common to all beings.

Freedom is not everything, but it is a necessity for beings. No one desires to be forced to be, but everyone is willing to be. That is the secret of the world, and it attracts all beings with dreams.

Now, we have an idea of how we could govern the world. We see that we need a new consensus on all politics. Even in any region or nationality, we may share some ideas.

We may not ask for any conflict in the world with its future, but any argument and discussion must give us an answer and any agreement that promises a new world.

These are the basis of new socialism. Livelihoods and new technology serve a new reality, a new world that must promise the same opportunity to all beings.

We have a choice: any familiar and consensus of the future.

These are any ideas we may seek for a new world system and consensus.